ASKS SUPPORT FOR LEWIS

West Liberty, Ky., July 26, 1939
TO THE VOTERS OF THE 37TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT AND ESPECIALLY MORGAN COUNTY:

One of the candidates, Walter M. Gardner, is asking support on account of being a Morgan county man. Well, I have been here 19 years and he has never lived here during this period only a few months when he started to run for Circuit Judge, six years ago, and moved here May 30, 1939, about two months ago, therefore he is not a Morgan county man, having raised his family in Berea and Lexington.

Six years ago when Lynn B. Wells was a candidate, he supported Walter Mobley for Judge and lost the county almost 1500 in the primary and lost it to a Republican in November. He was not for a Morgan county man at that time, in fact, he never has had much for the people of Morgan county only to make a living off them for himself and family.

Jesse K. Lewis, his opponent, is a World War Veteran, well qualified and always has a glad handshake for each and every one, being one of the common people, while Mr. Gardner is an aristocrat, and has never had time to shake hands with the common man only when he wanted something.

As a citizen of Morgan county I am asking my friends to vote for and support a man that can and will win the Democratic nomination and who will be elected in November, I am

Cordially yours,
HOLLY WRIGHT, West Liberty, Ky.

Birthday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Haney of Bethel Chapel entertained at their home Sunday in honor of Mrs. Haney's daughter, Miss Delma Stacey, whose birthday was Monday, July 24. Those who were present on this delightful occasion were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stacey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Taulbee and daughters, Misses Ruth, Fairy and Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stacey and Misses Jean and Edith Stacey all of here, and Mr. and Mrs. Greenie Elam and children, Imogene, Mary Frances, Edwin and Rex of Cannel City and W. B. Caudill of Clintonville. All enjoyed the fine delicious dinner and departed in the late afternoon.

Operator's Licenses

Please call and have your operator's licenses renewed before July 31, those waiting until the last minute rush, may have to wait until their turns. Office of Circuit Clerk opened from 8 A.M. until 5:00 P.M.

FLOOD RELIEF COMMITTEE

The following committee has been appointed to receive contributions for flood relief in Morgan county: W. O. Pelfrey, Chm., West Liberty; Mrs. C. K. Stacy, West Liberty; Wendell Nickell, West Liberty; Miss Floris Cox, West Liberty; Mrs. J. B. Nickell, West Liberty; Mrs. Jasper Jones, Insko; Prof. Wm. A. Heagen, Ezel; Mrs. Guy Leslie, Cannel City; Luther Reed, Cane; Mrs. Doyle Lawson, Malone; Ernest Lewis, Wrigley; Mrs. Betty Fannin, Crockett; Farmer Lewis, Blaine.

A meeting of this committee will be held Saturday at 10:00 A.M. in the County Superintendent's office, when a Red Cross representative will explain the work being done and the purpose for which contributions will be used in the county.

Contributions may be given to any member of this committee and a list of all contributions will be published in the Courier.

ROSCO BRONG, Chairman Morgan County Chapter American Red Cross.

Petty Thievery

Some time ago about 150 pullets were stolen from the chicken house of Sam D. Cecil near Hazel Green. Some clever detective work and putting about 1,000 miles of service on his automobile enabled Mr. Cecil to locate his chickens and actually recover about one third of the chickens. Three Brethitt county boys were arrested by deputy sheriff Kenneth Fairchild and spent a night in jail here. They were later released on bond and will be brought before the grand jury which convenes on August 14 to face indictment. Just last week a team of horses was taken from the barn of F. C. Oakley at pleasant Run. Deputy Sheriff also located this property in Breathitt county and returned it to the owner. Two men one a neighbor to Mr. Oakley and the other from Breathitt county are charged with stealing the horses and must face court when it convenes.

New Books for Library

During the month of July around 500 new books have been received from several large public libraries. All the books in the county have been brought in and inventory has been taken. At the present time no books are being let out of the library until further notice but there is a large selection of magazines that can be checked out. Quite a few of the books are overdue and it would be greatly appreciate if all the books checked from the library would be sent in at once. There have been a large number of people in to the library for books to read and as soon as they start checking books out again all of the readers will be welcome. During the teachers' conference in West Liberty, Laura H. Kohler of Chicago, Ill., visited the WPA Pack Horse Library and was greatly interested in the work that was being done.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

Will Carter thought his wife did not know when his birthday was but she looked in the operator's license files and found that he was born on July 24. So Mr. Carter was surprised Monday when a lot of company walked in for dinner. His surprise was complete when a birthday cake was set before him.

Mrs. Carter served a fine chicken dinner with all the trimmings: Iced tea, pineapple ice cream and cake completed the menu.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Carter, those who enjoyed the occasion were: Miss Anna Ruth Lykins, Mr. and Mrs. Ren Nickell and their grandchildren, Larry Scott, Joe and Mary Catherine Blevins, Rev. W. T. Pelfrey, R. M. Oakley, Miss Margaret M. Brong was invited and was sorry she was unable to be present.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Edward Vest of Woodsbend is in the hospital being treated for a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. J. R. Collier has been discharged after being in the hospital over three months. She says they treated her nice but she is so happy to be back with Mrs. Baldwin.

Paul Fugett of Wrigley took his wife and fine baby girl home Saturday.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reed Hausley, who has been suffering with bronchitis, is improving.

Miss Myrtle Osborn of Woodsbend, had a tonsillitis operation and was able to be discharged Friday.

SURPRISE SHOWER

Wednesday, July 19, Mrs. J. B. Nickell went to see her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Nickell. On entering and seeing the packages she exclaimed, "Is it a shower. I should have brought something." Imagine her surprise when she found the shower was in honor of her and the new home into which she and her family hope to move soon. Space will not permit mentioning the many lovely things given to her.

Those present at this gala occasion were: Misses Eula Mae Spencer, Josephine McGuire, Florence McGuire, Margaret M. Brong, Nell Caskey; Mesdames Drexel Moore, Rex Byrd, William Taulbee of Paintsville, Gordon Adkins, Opa McKenzie, Paul Henson, James Perry, James Tackett, Joseph Fannin, W. G. Ratliff, Stanley Gullett, Carl Reeves, Ollie Blair, Jay Burton, Luther Blair, Ova Haney, George Cook, Oscar McKenzie, J. C. Arnett, and Curt Mathis of Harlan.

Those who sent gifts with their regrets were: Misses Pauline Noble, Frances Day; Mesdames Floyd Arnett, Henry Carr Rose, Raymond Poynter, S. Monroe Nickell of Lexington, Arthur Keeton of Lexington, Wallace Byrd, Kelly Nickell of Grassy Chrysal Howard, Ransom Caskey, Everett Nickell, Homer Rose, Winfred Carpenter, J. C. Nickell, Henry Rose, W. A. Caskey, Alonzo Elam, Robert Stafford, Henry Perry, W. P. Elam, A. P. Gullett, Herbert Trayner, Norman Gullett, T. H. Caskey, Carl Burton, Will Carter, C. K. Stacy.

Miss Floris Cox and Mrs. Rex Byrd assisted with the entertainment. After the opening of the packages, which was enjoyed by all, the hostess served with a bountiful supply of ice cold lemonade and small cakes.

The other guests left while the guest of honor was in quandry over how to get all her newly acquired possessions moved to her home.

LADIES AID MEETING

The Ladies Aid Society of the Cannel City Union church was entertained with an all day meeting at the church by Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker, July 20. Members present were: Mrs. W. T. Stamper, Mrs. J. W. Benton, Miss Gladys Benton, Mrs. Lonnie Patrick, Mrs. A. E. Sebastian, Mrs. G. W. Leslie, Mrs. Katie Sebastian, Mrs. Earl Haney, Mrs. J. D. Whiteaker, Mrs. Clyde Wells, Mrs. D. P. Peyton, Mrs. Inez Donovan, visitors were, Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Garriott, Mrs. C. K. Stacy, Mrs. W. M. Gardner, Coleen Patrick.

The morning opened with silent prayer then prayer by Mrs. Whiteaker. "Faith of Our Fathers" was sung after which Rev. Garriott read from Romans 12:1-5 and a wonderful message in prayer was brought. All business of the aid was transacted and a short talk was given by the vice president, Mrs. W. T. Stamper. Special song by Mrs. Peyton and Mrs. Leslie, "Leave It There."

A very spiritual and instructive talk was given by Mrs. Walter Gardner of West Liberty, on our duty to the church, pastor, mother, home and children, all of which need to be discussed more often.

After singing, "Something for Jesus," Mrs. Stacy dismissed with prayer.

During the noon hour all enjoyed a delicious lunch prepared by the Ladies of the Aid. The afternoon program was conducted by Mrs. Whiteaker and was very interesting as all present, read or quoted some scripture that was helpful to their own soul. Mrs. Garriott took charge of the prayer service with an altar call which was a beautiful picture of humility.

Mrs. Peyton and Mrs. Leslie sang "Though Your Sins be as Scarlet." Mrs. Stacy discussed "What Religion Does for Us." Many interesting and spiritual points were brought out in a very instructive manner.

Mrs. Leslie gave a very interesting account of the church work she had been doing while living in Washington. Bro. Garriott closed with an inspiring talk on "Praying Together, Act 3:1; 'Working Together' II Cor. 6:1; 'Striving Together' Phil. 1:27. The beautiful old hymn, "O For a Thousand Tongues" was sung. Prayer by Mrs. Gardner. We adjourned to meet with Mrs. W. T. Stamper, August 3.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Most busy men are not half as busy as they think they are.

Sometimes, the man who rocks the boat is the first to drown.

West Liberty is as good a place for you to live in as you deserve.

Not many liberals object to government regulation of other people.

Most people enjoy good meals, especially if somebody else serves them.

The wealthy citizen may regulate his donations but the government fixes his taxes.

Our Own Idea: Character is beginning to be recognized as an asset, even in business circles.

Some merchants are unreasonable, it seems; they expect people to pay their accounts!

If you think you have many friends you might have one, and you'd be lucky at that!

Money making may not be the most important task of our human activity but it is what gets our serious attention.

So far, we have discovered few instances where industrialists have located new plants in order to help ambitious little towns.

The earth, it might be observed, is big enough for two nations to exist and grow without having to make war upon each other.

The man who gives a bribe, whether of money or some other consideration is as guilty as the man who violates a trust and accepts it.

We may be wrong but we have an idea that the economic distress of agriculture has a lot to do with unemployment in the industrial areas.

Every problem is clear if you listen to one speaker; it becomes confused if you hear another and hopelessly befuddled if you chance upon an expert's views.

Subscribers to The Courier have every right to tell the editor how the newspaper should be run and the editor has every right to run it as he sees fit.

It is probably too much to expect but one of these days there will be efficiency in government; maybe, in a million years or so, the rich will pay their just share of the taxes.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Dean, Schools of Business

International Correspondence Schools

IN planning a future youth must remember that the times are typified by great industrial change. New industries spring up and expand, while old industries fade out of the picture. The young man now entering business should endeavor to align himself with a growing industry and to avoid industries that are standing still or declining.

How can the young man determine the industries that are likely to go forward, not backward in future years? One thing he can do is to note how the public spends its income. Business ideas become effective when they are translated into what the average family buys. Keep in mind that many products, experimental a decade or even a few years ago, are now part of our daily existence—radios, quick frozen foods, electric mixers, electric toasters, electric sweepers, automatic heating, air conditioned buildings, and innumerable other things.

He should also note the new interests of the public as indicated by the type of films shown in moving picture houses, the contents of popular books, and the subjects propounded in radio forums and local discussion groups. He should pay attention to the universal urge for more pleasure, the greater interest in the outdoors, in camps and trailers, and in suburban homes.

The young man, however, must not get the idea that every new business project will result in a great industry or that the future of every old business is dark. The character of the management of a particular business as well as the type of industry in which the business is engaged should be considered by the youth who is seeking a position that will offer an assured future.

37TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

To the Democratic voters of Morgan county: On August the 5th, it becomes our duty as citizens to choose by ballot a nominee for Circuit Judge, and in this choice we should lay aside everything, except the thought of choosing a man that can win in November.

Being a citizen of our county and having thoroughly investigated the chances for election of our nominee, I find that R. T. Kennard, of Olive Hill, if nominated will be a sure winner in the final.

Mr. Kennard is a second cousin of mine and I would have been pleased to meet you all and discussed the situation but time will not permit, so I take this method of asking my friends in every section of the county to support my cousin, Mr. Kennard, and let's have a winner on the ballot in November.

His lineage goes back to the Williams', Days', Litterals', Coffees' and Fergusons' and he is an old time Baptist.

Thanking you all for the support you have given me in the past and thanking you in advance for your support of Mr. Kennard, I am your friend and neighbor,

FRANK KENNARD

NEW BANK BUILDING

For some time an architect has been busy designing and drawing plans for a new Commercial Bank building here. The present bank structure will be built into the new building. Plans call for a very modern and up-to-date banking house and when completed will rank high among the banking establishments in the state.

The Congleton Contracting Company has been awarded the contract to erect the new building. The building in addition to its present site will occupy all that lot vacated by the removal of a frame building between the present bank building and the Cole Hotel building. The contractors have started work on the building and they will rush the work through to completion. One brick side of the present bank building will be taken down and the present floor space of the bank will be nearly doubled in the new structure.

HOTEL IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stacy, proprietors of the Cole Hotel, are making some fine improvements, which will not only add to their own business, but will mean much to the town, owing to the modern conveniences for tourists who stop even for a few hours.

The Stacy's are building on more rooms, adding private baths and putting cold and hot water in every room. Nor is this all. They are keeping up the reputation the house has for plenty of good wholesome food, nicely prepared, with appetizing variety and daintily served.

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

In stacking hay, a bottom of poles or dry trash is advisable and a well-tramped center built high and covered with a foot or more of grass hay to shed the water. Since there is always some loss on every stack, small stacks should be avoided.

Poached egg recipe: Scald milk to simmering in a shallow skillet. Drop in eggs and hold at simmering temperature until the egg is white and jelly-like and a film is formed over the yolk.

Some porches where the family is supposed to live a good part of the summer are so cluttered up with furniture, plants and flowers that there is just no living on them. Set the plants out in the yard and have just the furniture that is used.

Growing ration for young turkeys: mixed wheat feed 200 pounds; ground yellow corn, 100 pounds; ground oats or barley, 100 pounds; meat and bone scrap, 100 pounds; salt, 5 pounds. If oats or barley are not available, increase the corn to 200 pounds.

The temperature of well or spring water—52 to 66 degrees—is considered the best churning temperature. As a general rule, slightly lower in summer and higher in winter, may be beneficial. The churning job should not take more than 30 to 40 minutes.

Mistaking nitrate of soda for salt has been the cause of some heavy losses among livestock. It is well to keep nitrate of soda carefully labeled, and even locked up, rather than to risk its being given to stock.

HOW LIVESTOCK HELPS

An analysis of farm records, made by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, shows that livestock raisers in Hopkins county, Kentucky, made more money last year than did farmers who depended on cash crops. Favorable prices for hogs and beef cattle helped put the stock men considerably ahead of men who produced only wheat and tobacco.

On the 22 farms studied, hogs returned an average of $278 per farm; beef cattle, $151 per farm; milk cows, $316; wheat, $103, and tobacco, $141. Net earnings per farm averaged $822, after allowing for all cash expenses and depreciation, and 5 percent on the farm investment.

Economists making the studies said that farms depending upon crops as a major source of income require considerable expenses, such as labor for harvesting, whereas farms having livestock to contribute a definite part of the income usually require less labor and operating expense.

Important factors making for better incomes were listed as follows: Higher receipts from productive livestock; more beef cattle; more pigs raised per sow; higher receipts per crop acre; higher percentage of plowable land in pasture, and higher total receipts per $1 expense.

In regard to costs, the report said that "although the expenses for the major items were slightly higher on the most profitable farms, a close observation of the expenses indicates more careful spending."

SOIL CONSERVATION

Soil conservation will have increased emphasis in the 1940 farm program, according to M. D. Royle, chairman of the State Agricultural Adjustment Administration committee. Next year's farm program also will provide better opportunity for operators of small farms to participate, with farmer committees continuing their work, it was said. Royle recently returned to Kentucky after attending a national Agricultural Adjustment Administration conference.

A minimum soil-building allowance of $20 per farm was recommended, as it was that farmers be allowed to earn as high as $30 per farm for tree planting, in addition to the regular soil building allowance for the farm. It also was recommended at the farm conference that triple superphosphate and ground limestone again be supplied for use on soil conserving crops. State and local committeemen will have more responsibility for the field administration of crop insurance and loans, it was reported.

"Farmers will have in 1940 a better chance to know in advance of planting season what the program has to offer," according to Royle. "Recommendations adopted at the conference will be used in drafting specific provisions for the 1940 program, which will in general follow the same lines as the 1939 program. Changes will tend toward simplification, and toward improved soil conservation.

"As in 1939, there will be two different payments which farmers may earn: conservation, and price adjustment. The national wheat allotment of 62,000,000 acres for 1940 has been announced. Other special allotments will be made later in the season when this year's crop definitely is known. Changes in rates of payment on these commodities will be made on the basis of what the allotments are for them," Royle concluded.

TOPPING AND SUCKERING TOBACCO

Results of 11 years of experiments in topping and suckering burley tobacco are given in a recent annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky.

Topping soon after the flower bud appears and pulling the suckers when only 3 or 4 inches long, or any other practice that tends to produce thick leaves, may give a 30-percent larger yield than if the plants are topped late and little or no suckering is done. However, continues the report, the higher yield obtained in this way is usually associated with darker color in the leaf. Since red leaf commands a low price at present, the higher yield does not compensate for the low quality; hence the practice is not desirable.

Almost all the methods that have been practiced in the burley district have been tested at the Experiment Station, and except where the crop was not topped or suckered until harvest time, all proved about equally satisfactory as to yield and quality. Obviously, then, point out the experimenters, the least laborious method should be practiced. This is the practice of deferring topping until the plants are in full bloom and allowing whatever suckers appear to develop until harvest time. In seasons when suckers grow rapidly and the tobacco ripens slowly, it is desirable to remove the largest suckers about 10 days after topping.

In a method recently adopted by some growers the flower head only is broken off when the first bloom opens. No suckering is done, and at harvest time the top of the plant is broken out, leaving only full-sized leaves. This method has not been tested thoroughly at the Experiment Station, but it has some outstanding advantages.

Where the plants were not topped or suckered until harvest time, the yield was considerably reduced and the leaf grades were of poor quality.

HOME-MADE BROOMS

It is so easy to buy brooms today that few of my acquaintances know the art of making them at home. I must confess that my training in household arts did not include broom-making, but I have looked in on the art as practiced by others. Just as I marvel at basketry, so I marvel at the skillful art of making brooms.

For raking yards in the fall or spring a fair broom can be made from huckleberry bushes. They grow tough and have hosts of short, crooked limbs, making a pretty fair rake or broom naturally. By tying a bunch of these together, you can have a broom that will prevent your using a more expensive one.

Broom corn does not seem a farm necessity now. Once every farm had its patch, planted at some distance from the sorghum, with which it would mix and produce a sort of cane that is unfit for use as brooms or for stock food. The long heads have a tendency to bend into queer shapes after the seeds get ripe; hence it is wise to bend the stalks down at a certain stage of their growth. The stalks thus grow straight, and, I am told, the lasting quality of the head is increased by this partial separation from the stalk. The heads are cut at the right time, which I must confess I have forgotten, though I raised the cane several years. The seeds are removed by holding a flat stick on the head and drawing the straw between it and a board. Then the heads are dried until they become light; they are then ready for broom-making.

Broom-makers of the ordinary type made round brooms, arranging the heads around a stick and wrapping them properly with a kind of wire especially for this purpose. Then the body of the broom was sewed with some bright-colored carpet warp. This broom, though not very artistic, would last a long time and was usually strong and bushy.

More artistic broom-makers could create a flat broom almost exactly like the ones we would buy at the general store. These artists were very rare, however, in our part of the world.

Brooms were and are useful inventions. When a new household was being started, or when the members of the church gave a donation party, a broom was sure to be present from some well-wisher. I find in my old diary that I contributed a broom to the Methodist preacher when I attended the one donation party of my life.

The broom became and remains the symbol of good housekeeping. "A new broom sweeps clean." Not to know how to sweep properly has branded many a girl who would otherwise have been a model wife. No man whom I have ever known is handy with the broom, except in sweeping up trash that is big enough to stumble over. Older writers called woman the user of the distaff, an earlier form of the spindle; in our times it would be more appropriate to call one's mother's side of the house the broom side.—Kentucky Folklore Series.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Three Issues

Congress last week faced three controversial issues. Neutrality legislation, the lending program and the revised over the terms of the relief bill. It will require many weeks to dispose of these three controversial matters. Consequently, it is probable that when Congress will adjourn.

Dies

The Dies Committee, investigating un-American activities, will resume its hearing about the first of August. At that time it will hear investigators who have been obtaining evidence regarding the activities in this country of Nazi and Fascist groups. About a month will be required to take this testimony and afterwards the committee plans open hearings on the West Coast, and, later, in Chicago, Pittsburgh and possibly other places.

Warning

The development of new machinery and other labor-saving methods may be expected to decrease the number of jobs in manufacturing industries, says a WPA report, warning against relying too heavily on rising production and manufacturing as an outlet for the increasing labor supply of the country.

Utility Earnings

In 1938, 177 operating gas and electric utilities in thirty-three systems had a combined gross earnings of $1,467,940,296, according to a report of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The figures cover companies and assets of $5,000,000 or more. While eighteen companies showed no return whatever on common stock and one company was credited with 63.21 per cent, the average return was 8.32 per cent.

Police broke up what they called "the biggest hi-jacking gang nabbed in Louisville in years with the arrest of ten men said to be involved in the theft of $5,000 worth of cigarettes from trains running between Louisville and Indianapolis. Six of the ten were said to be former convicts. One George Haick, 41-year-old Syrian faces possible deportation.

For the past several weeks the courthouse has been plastered with conspicuous signs of many candidates seeking nominations for various offices in the August primary election and sometime during the night Monday all of these signs were taken down and burned by some unknown person or persons. Many of the citizens were indignant because of the gaudy display and expressed much disapproval because the courthouse and band stand were being used as billboards by the politicians.—Barbourville Advocate.

Keen Johnson candidate for Governor recognizes the balance owed by the state and says he intends to pay to the last dollar of it as his predecessor Gov. Chandler has done (with 90 % of the inherited debt done paid).

John Y. Brown, another candidate for Governor, says he will owe some debts too. Brown says: "To those who do much for me, I will owe much; to those who do little for me, I will owe little; and to those who do nothing for me, I will owe nothing at all." "And incidentally, while we are considering Mr. Brown's 'debt-paying program,'" says the Somerset Journal, "it seems proper to ask: How much will Brown consider he owes to the rank and file of Kentucky's citizenry if he is elected to the Governorship? Will the people have any sizeable share—indeed one may well ask—how much can there possibly be left for the people after Brown gets through paying his debt to John L. Lewis, Ruby Lagoon, Thomas S. Rhea, and a lot of lesser lights? Four years is hardly long enough for Brown to discharge his debt to these men. The people therefore in Brown's 'debt-paying' program seem destined to hold an empty bag." How much do you think Mr. Brown will owe to the individual voters as compared with the bunch mentioned above by the Journal.—Clay City Times.

Army Tests

Much secrecy surrounds the work of the Army and its proving grounds which cover around 35,000 acres near Aberdeen, Maryland. Activity has speeded up as the Army prepares to let contracts for its modernization. Here every gun, machine and all ammunition is thoroughly tested before acceptance by the Army.

Largest

The Boulder Dam Power plant is now the largest in the world. A seventh generator, recently placed in operation, brings its capacity to 860,000 horse-power. This compares with 746,000-horse power of a Russian plant, previously the largest in the world. Ultimately, the Boulder Dam plant will generate 1,835,000-horse-power.

PROFITABLE CROP ROTATION LIES IN CAREFUL PLANNING

CHICAGO.—How to make crop rotation pay farmers more dividends in increased yields per acre and lowered production costs was explained by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"The key to successful rotation is careful planning," a report says. "If crop rotation had more definite beginnings and endings, farmers generally would do more planning at the start of a three, four or six year cycle, and they would be more likely to take stock of the results.

"In most rotation programs starting this spring corn will be the basic crop, largely because of the amazing production records of 'Hybrid' seed.

"In planning the rotation, the matter of fertilizer will be extremely important. Because of its high yield per acre, corn makes heavy demands on the plant food resources of the soil, particularly nitrogen.

"The only practical alternative to replenish the extra amounts of plant food removed from the soil is to use commercial fertilizer."

PERSONAL appearance is a very important factor in business success. The young man who is seeking employment should create a good first impression. He should remember that neatness and cleanliness are more important than the quality of material from which his garments are made. A prospective employer may not be impressed by the cut of an applicant's suit, but he will make a mental note of his general appearance.

A safe rule respecting dress for any man to follow is Lord Chesterfield's famous advice: "Be scrupulously careful of your attire, and then think no more about it." The well dressed man obtains a feeling of self-respect. If you respect yourself you can reasonably hope to command the respect of others.

Promptness is a virtue much needed in business. If you are the boss you appreciate promptness in those who work under your direction. If you are an employee you can improve your standing with your superiors by demonstrating that you attend to all matters promptly. The man who lags in his work is very likely to lag along at the bottom of the salary list.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mathis are moving back to our city after three years' absence. Mr. Mathis will teach one of the Morgan county schools.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gardner's daughter, Ruth, husband and little daughter returned a few days ago to their home in Stanton. Mr. Wilkey is principle of the school there.

Pimiento, Pimienta, Different. Pimiento and pimienta are two entirely different products. The first is made of berries from the pimiento tree, while the latter is a Spanish pepper.

Oxygen Removed. When air is exhaled from the lungs, it has had 4 per cent of its oxygen removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Fugett and two little daughters and Miss Lillian Fugett returned to Ohio Friday.

Mrs. O. O. Haney was called to Wayland Monday on account of the illness of her mother. She joined the family Tuesday on their trip to Asheville, North Carolina, where her mother will have a thorough examination.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Elam of Richmond visited relatives here Sunday. Their son, Daniel returned home with them. Their son, Jim Henry, who also had been visiting here, joined some other boys at Richmond for a motor cycle trip to the World's Fair in New York.

Corn Crop Demonstrates the Value of Fertilizer

THIS photograph illustrates how the intelligent use of fertilizer can restore soil deficient in certain plant foods and transform an unprofitable yield into a profitable one. The crop of corn shown at the right was grown on the farm of George Woodridge of Lowell, Ind., on a black sandy loam soil of a type similar to that found in several other middle western states.

The land had been sown to soybeans which had been cut off for hay the previous four years. The growth was extremely uneven in the fourth season. A keenly observant agronomist noticed that the only healthy plants were in spots which proved to be areas where soybean shocks had stood the previous fall. Fertility had leached out of the soybean hay in these shocks and provided plant food for the following crop.

The agronomist made an analysis of the soil away from where the shocks had stood and found what its plant food needs were to grow a successful crop.

Corn was planted in 1937 and studies of the use of fertilizers were made. The test plot on the right was unfertilized. The one on the left was given an application of 125 pounds of fertilizer.

The unfertilized plot yielded 12.54 bushels to the acre, of which 82.2 per cent was poor. On the basis of 50 cents a bushel on good corn and 15 cents on poor corn, the return from this unfertilized plot was $2.65 per acre.

The fertilized plot yielded 49.50 bushels per acre, of which 4.4 per cent was of poor quality. The fertilized plot returned $23.98 per acre. The fertilizer cost $1.97 per acre. The value of the corn was $22.01 above the cost of fertilizer and the increase due to the use of fertilizer was $20.04.

Results such as those obtained on the Woodridge farm are, of course, exceptional. The Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out, and could occur only when plant foods in the soil are at an extremely low ebb. Nevertheless, on soils of a high average fertility, the use of fertilizer is profitable and even a six bushel per acre increase will more than pay for the most expensive fertilizer and leave a margin of profit on the farmer's operation.

R. M. BAGBY

FOR

Lieutenant Governor

He is a practical farmer and business man. He has their interest at heart and is eminently fitted to aid the farmer and his helpers in their economic problems.

He is intensely interested in farm ownership as well as home ownership and believes in encouraging the small farmer and home owner by making their tax burden lighter.

He is a friend to the laboring man, and he knows their problems. He believes there should be the closest cooperation between labor and capital, and that our Government should always be sympathetic and helpful in its dealings with all our citizens.

He is not a professional politician. He is genuinely interested in the welfare of you and our Kentucky.

R. M. Bagby, of Grayson. For Democratic Nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

"R. M. BAGBY will add strength to the ticket."
